

P2T Converter License/Service Terms

1. P2T Converter License

Please note that upon installation of P2T Converter, its license is bound to the device's MAC address. Such license is thus not transferrable. In case of device hardware failure that requires re-installation of the converter license on another device, Atrust will provide special service allowing a customer to bind the purchased converter license to another device with a different MAC address. Such service is available within twelve months after Atrust's delivery date of the purchased P2T Converter ("Service Period"). However, if the customer can provide purchase proof indicating the request is made within twelve months after the purchase of the original P2T Converter, the Service Period may start from purchase date instead. The old license is renewed and replaced in its entirety by the new license. The service is available for one time for each purchased P2T Converter. The customer will be required to declare and agree in advance not to use the previous license on the device with the old MAC address anymore.

Atrust software is licensed pursuant to Atrust's End User License Agreement. All rights not expressly granted in End User License Agreement are reserved by Atrust.

2. Software Support

Atrust provides free software updates for the product within three years after the product end of life. Updates will be provided regularly as Atrust deems appropriate.
